"KISSING BUG" A FAKE.

How People Have Been Fooled By a Clever Trick.

The kissing bug is a myth. There is no such creature in existence as the much-advertised melanoestes picipes. The whole thing is a hoax, started by some bright young newspaper men in Washington when there was a scarcity of real news, and swallowed by the gullible public as many a hoax has been before and will be hereafter. The Washington boys started the yarn as a hot weather joke to relieve the tedium of a summer with no congress in session and the enterprise of yellow journalism did the rest. Pictures of the mysterious bug have been published, and telegraphic dispatches have told of its serious, and occasionally fatal, ravages. And now the truth is out, and the public will have to laugh away its discomfort at having been fooled again.

A Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch tells the origin of the kissing bug, but probably the exposure of the hoax will travel neither as far nor as fast as the hoax itself, and many people will continue to live in mortal terror of the winged osculator.

It was in the early part of June that the wonderful creature was first heard of. At that time many complaints were made to the police department of Washington, by colored women, that a big colored man had stopped them on lonely streets at night and kissed them. In some instances the complaints said that the ruffian had bitten them on the mouth or cheek, the police tried hard to catch the colored man, but were unsuccessful. The policemen were worried, for the complaints continued, and the newspaper men and others began to make fun of the police department. At length, as a teaser for the officers, the theory was offered that the kissing of the dusky damsels was not done by a human being at all, but by a bug. The notion being duly discussed in News paper row, it was decided to invent the kissing bug, a new entomological terror, and have a little fun with it during the hot spell.

Of course, it was necessary to invent a scientific name for the bug, and a gentleman who knew something of Greek invented the name melanoestes picipes. The vicious work of the bug was first tried on the country, through some of the journals most susceptible to fakes, and it took immensely. It made a hit as a warm-weather story, and was received in many quarters with serious belief. A few days later the news was that it had been found to be the melanoestes. This clinched the story, and it was believed almost everywhere, except by really scientific men, who knew that there was no such insect. No one could have been more astonished than the newspaper men of Washington who started the yarn when they saw reports of the appearance of the kissing bug in the more northern cities sending its victims to the hospitals almost daily. Here was a singular feature of the affair. It was, of course, most singular to the gentlemen who knew that there was no such thing as the kissing bug. It began to appear like something else than simply a hot-weather joke. Pictures of the creature were published in several of the Eastern papers. These pictures represent a genuine bug, which is as harmless as a dragon fly, but as dangerous to king and they gave many persons the hot tremors, only to look at them.

It was an unexpectedly successful conspiracy to frighten persons in the hot weather and cause sleepless nights. The name melanoestes, which the newspaper men created, is from two Greek words, meaning "black bandit." It is not a word used in entomology, but it was a good one for the occasion. To be sure, it did not do much good to have a kissing bug without also having victims. This was not a hard point. There are insects which bite people, spiders and mosquitoes for example, and persons can always be found with sore and swollen lips, and it is not hard for a newspaper man to exaggerate the swelling and make it any size desirable. The victims presented to the reading public by the originators of the yarn in Washington were unknown and perhaps fictitious colored persons. The story being well established in the national capital, it was pushed northward by the gentlemen in the conspiracy. The boys of Baltimore threatened to stop the fun, however. They would have none of it, knowing it to be a fake, and the kissing bug did not invade Baltimore and create hysterics there. The Washingtonians say that the newspaper men of Baltimore are entirely too conscientious for this world. The kissing bug, however, extended itself and carried its devastations northward into New Jersey and to Philadelphia and New York, and has worked into New England. The summer resorts have seen it. A supposed specimen or two has even been captured in Augusta, Me.

And now the bottom drops out of the whole hoax, and everybody will proceed to laugh. It was time to crush the kissing bug. He was making people nervous, and his effect was especially bad on hysterical women. The whole thing shows the power of journalism, and while all journalists may not be proud of this illustration of their power it is to be wished that the press were never used for a worse purpose.

The Herald is one of the few newspapers in this vicinity that have not been imposed upon by this fake. Other local dailies have told how the mysterious bug bit a Kittery Purit girl so badly that she had to visit a doctor, but neither her name nor that of the physician was given.

Dover has it too, too, or maybe 'tis a clever advertising ruse of a trader up there, for Wednesday's Democrat says: "Thomas McGrail has on exhibition a famous 'kissing' bug which was captured in front of his place of business this morning."

Through it all, while other papers have devoted columns to this hoax—running a serial story about it, the Herald has remained cool and refused to go into hysterics over it. The truth is now out. It has been shown, for the ten thousandth time, how easily many people can be fooled.

Had this thing not been exposed now, we should probably have soon seen specimens of this awful bug produced by enterprising fakirs.

PORTSMOUTH'S SUMMER GIRL.

The summer season is now on in full blast and the hotel keepers' faces are wreathed in smiles. On every hand are evidences of our annual visitors and Congress street is thronged with them, from morning until night.

The summer girl is most in evidence, and besides of them, most becomingly dressed, may be seen gathered at the soda fountains chatting with accompaniment of clerks and indulging in that delightful refreshment, ice cream soda.

These summer girls know how to enjoy life and they are fond of changes also, and scarcely a season passes but witnesses some part of their wearing apparel that immediately betrays a summer boarder.

Last year, as a rule, they appeared on the streets bare-headed, but this year the typical summer girl sports a natty sunbonnet, which makes her the admired of admirers. They are made in all colors and shapes and whether the wearer appears on horse back or bicycle, carriage or afoot, she presents a most charming appearance.

You will see her on the golf links where she is an expert at this game, and also on the tennis courts, where her favorite racket wins for her many sets during her tarry among us. And when her brother and gentlemen friends indulge in base ball you will always find her in the front row cheering loudly for her favorite team, whether it is winning or losing. If it is losing she will cheer all the harder for the lost cause.

But it is at bathing where this same girl, to use the slang expression, "puts the most ice." She appears on the beach clad in a suit that many of the critical ones would say had shrunk from being wet on former occasions. But little does she care, she wants a dip in the briny, and she makes one dash into the surf, and for a moment is lost from sight.

She soon appears, however, and swims off like a fish (for who ever heard of a Portsmouth summer girl who could not swim?) for the shore, where, after shaking the water from her curly locks, she makes a graceful dive. The cold water, which sends shills down the consumptive's back, has no terrors for this robust maiden, and she appears from her bath looking as fresh as a rose and twice as handsome.

As a fitting close to her day's work comes the ball room, where occur the weekly hops of the hotel guests. Here the summer girl is more in evidence than ever and she is eagerly sought after by a score of partners, all asking for just one waltz, schottische or two step.

This describes her life for the summer and with the coming of September the faces gradually disappear, until at length Portsmouth is again deserted by the summer devotees, and must wait another year for her appearance.

OUT FOR CONGRESS.

Dr. J. A. Greene Announces His Candidacy.

Dr. J. Alonzo Greene is candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the first district. To a newspaper man Wednesday he declared himself in the race and in to stay.

When asked of this determination of his to endeavor to go to Congress had been reached lately, Dr. Greene replied that for a long time his friends had urged him to run for the governorship. He had declined to make an aggressive move for the nomination, because he felt he had done nothing, politically, to deserve such a nomination, and he now proposed to gain that political reputation which should put him in line for the coveted office Congressman Salloway's announcement that he was out for the senatorship had determined him to endeavor to succeed Mr. Salloway in the House of Representatives.

"As far as Congressman Salloway is concerned," said Dr. Greene, "he is out of the race entirely. He has so declared in no less than three interviews. He is out for the senatorship, and means to get there. Whether he will or not, remains to be seen. He is also a warm personal friend of mine, but even should he change his mind and conclude to take gingerbread if he couldn't get poud cake, I should feel under no obligations to withdraw from the race."

"I propose to go in to win against all comers and if I succeed I shall endeavor to represent New Hampshire in the House to the very utmost of my ability, trusting that by so doing I shall confer honor upon myself and upon the state and lie in the right line for the governorship."

"It is a fair fight, and if I can get the nomination, as my friends assure me I can, I do not see any reason why I should not accept it; and I will say right here that I am going to get it, no matter how many candidates there are."

This remark was made with an emphasis which left no question of the speaker's determination to win the prize if it lay within his power and within the power of his many friends in this section of the country, and, indeed, all over New Hampshire.

Dr. Greene's idea seemed to be that, like Jeffries and Fitzsimmons, it was necessary to "go and get a reputation" before running for the governorship. When it was suggested that it was hardly necessary for Dr. Greene to get a reputation for almost everybody in New Hampshire knew him, the doctor laughingly replied that it was a political reputation that was necessary, and he believed the best way to become Governor of the state was to serve the state first in an able manner in the halls of Congress.

THE INTERVIEWER.

"There ought to have been some provision made for the prohibition of the shooting of the rifles in settled communities during the season when the law is on game," said a member of the past Legislature. "There is a constant danger in using rifles near settlements and it should have been prohibited by us. This is especially true of some of the more modern patterns of rifles that will shoot with effect for a mile or more. I have a 30-30 rifle at my bedside home and I have been trying the power of it lately with smokeless powder. It is simply wonderful what this rifle will do."

"It was just 35 years ago this afternoon," said a veteran, Tuesday, "when six men were hung in Andersonville prison. I can well remember the day."

TYPES OF SODA WATER GIRLS.

Brunettes Take Chocolate or Coffee—Blondes Prefer Vanilla or Lemon.

Now the season for the sizzling soda is with its certain types and traits of soda water girls are found together. For instance, brunettes take chocolate, ginger or coffee, just as their country cousins take sarsaparilla. Golden haired, Dresden china girls take pineapple, lemon or vanilla, while Titian beauties prefer raspberry, apricot, cherry or orange phosphate.

Demi-blondes, with brown hair, fair skins and dark eyes, are usually addicted to mixed flavors. Vanilla and coffee together is subtle and Oriental, while pistache and lemon suggests butterdies and apple blossoms, and apricot and lemon taste like sweet remorse, or "I wish I hadn't!" and pineapple and strawberry recalls La France roses and moonlight tete-a-tetes.

Unimaginative people will exclaim "Nonsense!" and drink their Moxie, root beer or chocolate without thinking, but imagination is half the pleasure of eating or drinking.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

No girl believes in long engagements who can get a short one.

He who would be the master of Love must first become his servant.

A woman always has a lot of sympathy for a man who pretends he hasn't any for himself.

The average girl has an idea that when a man is in love with her he always talks about her to his dog. A man feels sort of queer when he hears that the woman he was once engaged to is going to get a divorce.

When two men quarrel one of them is wrong; when two women quarrel both of them are.

What God and the angels do not understand about human nature is known only to the women.

At the bottom of half of the married trouble in the world is a nagging wife, and at the bottom of the other half is an indulgent husband.

For the first six months the average married man wonders how his wife ever came to do it; for the next six he wonders how he ever came to do it himself.

SOME WISE SAYINGS.

When men grow virtuous in their old age they are merely making a sacrifice to God of the devil's leavings.—Swift.

He whose first emotion, on the view of an excellent production, is to undervalue it, will never have one of his own to show.—Alkin.

Creditors have better memories than debtors; and creditors are a superstitious set, great observers of set days and times.—Franklin.

For the credit of virtue it must be admitted that the greatest evils which befall mankind are caused by their crimes.—La Rochefoucauld.

We ought in humanity no more to despise a man for the misfortunes of the mind than for those of the body, when they are such as he cannot help.—Pope.

Consolation indiscreetly pressed upon us when we are suffering under affliction, only serves to increase our pain, and to render our grief no more poignant.—Rousseau.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

There was not a public library in the United States.

Almost all of the furniture was imported from England.

There was only one hat factory, and that made cocked hats.

Crochery plates were objected to because they dulled the knives.

Virginia contained a fifth of the population of the country.

A gentleman bowing to a lady always scraped his foot on the ground.

Two stage coaches bore all the travel between New York and Boston.

When a man had enough tea, he placed his spoon across his cup to indicate that he wanted no more.

The Last Straw.

And pile the misery on you Without the least excuse.

But what is infinitely worse Than all the times they play Is to have them come 'round with the hat.

Properly Treated.

"You didn't even pay the minister who married us!" cried Mrs. Peck.

"He deserves to be 'hung up!'" shouted Henry. Savacola.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

GOLD FROM KLONDIKE

Miners Bring About Three-Quarters of a Million.

HEAVIEST CARGO RECEIVED.

The Biggest Clean-Up in the History of Alaska is Over—Dust By the Ton at Dawson.

It is said that the output will be fully double that of last year—Many confirm the statement that it will reach $20,000,000.—American Side Has Rich Diggings.

Seattle, Wash., July 12.—The steamship Queen has arrived here from the north with the heaviest gold cargo received here this year. The gold was actually in sight, and it took half a dozen express wagons to transport it from the steamer to the assay office and the banks. There was nearly a ton and a half of the gold in the possession of about twenty-five Klondikers.

The richest man to come out this year is J. B. Bickel, who brought 1,000 pounds of dust, worth $250,000. He is an old-timer on the Yukon, and the gold represents the output of a rich Bonanza claim for two seasons.

John Wilkinson, of San Francisco, had $50,000. He was the first man to stake claim on the famous Eldorado Creek after George Carmack discovered Bonanza.

Other rich holders were Joe De Paul, San Francisco, 300 pounds; John Hixby, $20,000; Pat Moran, a New York sporting man, $60,000; Donald McDonald, brother of Alex. McDonald, king of the Klondike, $25,000; Mrs. McKay, San Francisco, $10,000; Dr. Cassin and Frank Davis, Winnipeg, $10,000; H. A. Weld, Minneapolis, $5,000.

The biggest clean-up in the history of the Klondike is over and dust by the ton is stored in Dawson, waiting shipment by the lower river. It is said that the output will be double that of last year and many confirm the statement that it will surely reach $20,000,000. Much gold from last season's output will come out this year. Over $2,000,000 has already reached Seattle by the up-river route, and $6,000,000 is on the way from St. Michaels on the steamers Kenai, Caribou and Alliance.

The second trip of these vessels will bring the bulk of the output. Big gold strikes are reported from the upper Hootling river, and a stampede is under way. Summer work near Eagle City, on the American side, has uncovered rich diggings. An American has made a rich strike of placer gold on Gout Island, Lake Atlin. A serious accident occurred on the river, reported from Five Finger Rapids. Every one of the dozen boats on the Dawson route has had narrow escapes. The big steamer Canadian punched several holes in her bottom and narrowly escaped going down in deep water. The Victorian lost part of her hurricane deck and many tons of cargo while shooting the rapids.

Big Game Preserve in Pennsylvania.

Altoona, Pa., July 12.—One hundred sportsmen have arranged for the purchase of about five thousand acres of woodland in the hunting territory known as Beaver Dam, in Blair and Huntington counties. They will fence it in, build cabins, stock the woods with large and small game and the streams with trout. A professional gamekeeper is to be secured in Germany. He will have two assistants. New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh sportsmen are identified with the movement.

Boy Drowned in Deep Hole.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 12.—William H. Quackenbush, 10 years old, was drowned in the Raritan River. He was swimming in the river with a number of companions and in the course of play went out too far and stepped into a deep hole. He was drowned before aid could be given him. His body was recovered in about two hours.

Dislocation From Sneezing.

Anderson, Ind., July 12.—Attorney J. E. Hall sneezed his right shoulder out of place, and is now in the hands of a physician. He was taken with a violent spell of sneezing, and was almost exhausted when the shoulder was thrown out by a particularly severe sneeze.

Jumped From a Car.

Dayton, Ohio, July 12.—Eva Fogle, 17, in jumping from a moving electric car in front of her house, fell with her head against the pavement. She was taken to the hospital in a dangerous condition from a fractured skull.

Will to Be President.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—Thomas E. Will, President of the Kansas Agricultural College, has been offered the Presidency of the new Socialist college which the Buffalo Reform Conference voted to establish in Boston.

Steamboat Rate War.

New Haven, Conn., July 12.—A steamboat rate war is being waged between the Sound Line, The Fall River Line of the Consolidated Railroad has cut rates from $3.50 to $3 to meet the Narragansett line reduction.

To Stop Sunday Golfing.

Bayside, L. I., July 12.—Rev. A. Mc-Nichol, who stopped the Sunday ball games here, has started a movement which aims to put an end to Sunday golfing. He is now preaching against the latter.

Spanish Consuls Are Recognized.

Washington, July 12.—All the Spanish Consuls in the new American territories have been formally recognized.

Cambridge Shuts Out Oxford.

London, July 12.—In the university tennis game, Cambridge succeeded in shutting Oxford out.

DRIVE-OFF THE BANDITS

Residents of a Matanzas Town Repel a Violent Attack.

Havana, July 12.—A despatch to La Lucha says that the town of Aguidá de Pasaguer, province of Matanzas, was attacked by bandits. The residents made a desperate resistance, and the bandits were finally compelled to withdraw. They left behind them two killed and one wounded. Bandit guards are now in pursuit of the bandits.

Jose Miguel Gomez, Civil Governor of Santa Clara, is expected here to-day. He will bring to Secretary Capote the records of the meetings of the representatives of the various municipalities of Santa Clara, held in Santa Clara city, at which demands were made for more autonomy and authority to establish an agricultural bank to help the planters and farmers. The matter will probably go to Washington for decision.

A despatch from Las Tunas, province of Puerto Principe, says that the American forces there had an engagement on Sunday with a gang of bandits under Francisco Lopez, a Spanish ex-officer who was captured after a desperate fight in which four Americans were wounded. Lopez was taken into the town, when he made an attempt to escape when he was shot and killed.

Andrew Fuller, Julian C. Baker and Edwin Campbell McDowell, all Americans, will be expelled from Cuba, says a despatch to the Diario de la Marina, for the part they took in the riot in Cienfuegos on June 21, when the planter Senor Santa Maria was shot and killed.

POSTAL COMPANY SUE.

Bill Filed in Tennessee Asking That Receiver Be Appointed.

Chattanooga, July 12.—A bill was filed in the Tennessee Court here asking that the Postal Telegraph Company in the State of Tennessee be placed in the hands of a receiver. Some time ago a judgment was rendered in the courts at Memphis for $1,000 in favor of Thomas Lupton against the Postal Telegraph Company. An execution was issued by the Sheriff of this county, but the Postal company responded that it was not their property, but that of the Commercial Cable Company.

The bill filed charges that the Postal company is financially insolvent, has outstanding judgments all over Tennessee which cannot be collected by legal means, and asks that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the property. Chancellor McCullough issued an injunction restraining the company from disposing of any property it might have in this State.

The Postal company says that this action will test a long-wanted legal question which it desires to get into the Federal courts and have finally determined and passed upon.

Pinckney's Municipal Ownership.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—Gov. Pinckney's new scheme for municipal ownership of street railway lines in Detroit apparently won a victory when the Common Council, by a vote of 19 to 14, decided to give the commission a thirty-year franchise with a sixteen-year extension, in which to carry out Pinckney's plan of municipal ownership and operation of street railways. It took over seven hours to bring this about, and when the final motion reached the mayor he said promptly that he would veto the proceedings. Only one step has been accomplished in advance for the Pinckney plan, as it will take four more votes than he has at present to carry the measure over Mayor Maybury's veto.

A Hot Shot for Winslow.

Boston, July 12.—Erving Winslow, who is secretary of the so-called Anti-Imperialist League, in a letter addressed to Captain N. M. Dyer, formerly of the cruiser Baltimore, has directly insulted the army and navy of the United States. In his letter and a subsequent interview he refers sneeringly to the army and navy as a police force. The letter was shown to Captain Dyer at the home of his sister in Melrose. The Captain said the letter was too silly for him to pay any attention to and the man who wrote it should be denounced as a traitor to his country and his flag. He has further said he wished to have nothing to say to or do with a fellow Winslow's stripe.

Dreyfus Studying the Evidence.

Rennes, July 12.—M. Demange had a two-hour interview with Dreyfus. He found him in excellent health and spirits. Dreyfus has almost finished his study of the dossier, and he and M. Demange will work together on it for the remainder of the week. The commandant Carrière will finish his report between July 20 and 25 and the commandant will meet at the beginning of August.

$125,000,000 Liquor Trust.

Trenton, N. J., July 12.—A monster distilling company has been incorporated here under the name of the Distilling Company of America, with a capital stock of $125,000,000. Five millions is cumulative 7 per cent. preferred. The incorporators are Geo. E. P. Howard, East Orange; Francis R. Foraker and Walter S. Dryfoos, of New York.

Sends Dewey His Manila Medal.

Washington, July 12.—The Navy Department has despatched to Admiral Dewey the medal awarded to him by act of Congress to commemorate his battle of Manila Bay. The Admiral's medal is identical with those sent to each man in the fleet, with the exception of his own name engraved upon the edge.

Every State Will Be Represented.

Anstine, Texas, July 12.—Gov. Sayres has announced the fact that the be held in St. Louis on Sept. 29, will be a great success. He says that he has assurances that every State in the Union will be represented.

Asbury Wants the President.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 12.—A formal invitation to visit this city has been extended by the Council to President McKinley and Vice President Hobart. It is proposed to receive the distinguished guests at the Beach Auditorium, where a public reception will be held. The Council acted on suggestion of Senator James A. Bradley.

IT'S A MANLY ACT.

A Portsmouth Citizen Speaks For the Benefit of His Fellow Citizens.

A plain, straightforward statement. A graceful acknowledgment of facts. Telling a personal experience. Making it public for the public good. Is a manly act. It's manly because it helps others. So many people have been misled. So many claims made that were not true. No wonder there are skeptics. A Portsmouth man speaks here. Speaks in the interest of humanity. Shows the way to our citizens. Removes the stumbling block of doubt. Gives local endorsement. No better proof can be had. No better source can be asked. Portsmouth people should know what is the true kidney remedy. Distinguish it from many imitations. Know that Doan's Kidney Pills are the only genuine. There are many kidney remedies—but only one cure. Other Kidney Pills, but only one Doan's. And they cure kidney ills. We say so—our neighbors prove it. Read this case:

Mr. William K. Weston of No. 1 Woodbury avenue, says:—"For a year or more I had kidney trouble, sometimes attacking me more severely than at others. In every instance I had more or less dizziness, backache, headache, soreness over the kidneys, pains shooting up between the shoulders or down the thighs, and too frequent action of the kidney secretion. I could not do anything that required me to bend forward, and to assume an upright position after sitting for a little caused sharp twinges to shoot through the small of the back. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and it occurred to me to try them. I got a box at Philbrick's pharmacy, in the Franklin Block. Well, they went right to the spot at once. I never got anything to approach them. I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you can use my name in this respect, for I have every confidence in them as a remedy."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

FRAUDS IN NEBRASKA.

Populist Makes Affidavit to Having Forged Ballots.

Lincoln, Neb., July 12.—A committee of State Senators, all Republicans, have begun an investigation into various abuses of State government. The most sensational testimony was that of a former Populist janitor, Edward Simon, who testified to have assisted at a fraudulent marking of ballots in 1897. At the election in 1896 a constitutional amendment increasing the number of Supreme Court Judges was submitted. It lacked about 10,000 votes of adoption, but the Populist Legislature ordered a recount, as their constituent nominees had been elected. Simon testified that in several counties blank ballots were taken by himself, ex-Officer Edmundson and two clerks and marked for the amendment. Some bore the signatures of judges on the back, but on these were marked the names of judges who were forced. He identified various ballots as some he had marked. A. D. Christman, a banker, picked out of the ballots a large number he said bore the forged signatures of Judges in York county. The amendment was returned as not carried in spite of these charges. The committee was compelled to meet in a hotel, the Populist State officials refusing to give them room at the Capitol. The Governor had previously vetoed an appropriation to pay expenses.

Grant Wedding in Newport.

Newport, R. I., July 12.—The wedding of Miss Julia Dent Grant to Prince Michael Cantacuzene of Russia will be one of the social events of the Newport season. It will be a certain that the ceremony will take place here. Mrs. Potter Palmer, the aunt of Miss Grant, was seen about the wedding, and although she said that no arrangements had yet been made, she did state that Newport would be the scene of the wedding, and that it undoubtedly would be at Beaulieu, the seaside villa, which she is occupying this season. The Prince is expected here in about a month, when Miss Grant and her mother will have arrived from Saratoga.

Dissected a Living Dog.

Jamesstown, July 12.—John B. Fishbe, a student at the Medical School of the University of Buffalo, was charged before Judge Woodward with dissecting a living dog before a high school class at Ellington. He was held for the Grand Jury. According to the stories told by pupils not enough chloroform was administered to the dog to stupefy it, and the dissecting was done amid the howls and yelps of the dog. Some of the pupils were highly indignant at the exhibition and made complaint. It is said that the trustees are to investigate the matter, which would trouble for the principal who allowed the exhibition.

FIGHTING JOE ON DUTY

Gen. Joseph Wheeler Leaves For the Philippines.

GOES AS A SUBORDINATE.

Has No Plans and Will Not Know What He Is To Do Until He Consults With General Otis.

He Will Not Resign His Seat in the House—Will Sail For Manila July 20—President McKinley Hopes to See the Philippine Insurrection Crushed by Dec. 1.

Washington, July 12.—Gen. Joseph E. Wheeler left Washington yesterday afternoon en route to the Philippine Islands. He will go via Chicago, Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake, but as he is scheduled to teach San Francisco on Saturday, will not stop long at any place on the way. He will sail for Manila on the 20th.

"I have no plans of campaign," he said before leaving, "and shall not know what I am to do until I receive my instructions from General Otis. I should like to have it understood," he continued, "that I go to the Philippines in an entirely subordinate capacity. Not only General Otis, but Generals Lawton and MacArthur will rank me, and it is proper that they should, for while Generals Lawton and MacArthur were my juniors, they have been in the field while I have not, and deserve to have places superior to any assignment that may be given me." He said he would not resign his seat in the House.

Alger Makes Denial.

Washington, July 12.—Secretary of War Alger declines to believe that any members of the Cabinet are unfriendly toward him, or that his resignation would be agreeable to the President. He has told his friends that there is nothing in the talk about his retirement. In answer to a direct inquiry the Secretary dictated the following statement:—"I deny emphatically the report that I have refused to resign or that the President has intimated to me that he wants my resignation."

Yellow Fever in American Camps.

Washington, July 12.—Surgeon Sternberg has received two cables from Major O'Reilly, chief surgeon at Havana, regarding the yellow fever situation. In the first he says:—"Harvard, at Santiago, telegraphs revised list, showing 122 cases, with 24 deaths, including four officers, Fabrice, Cleland, McLaughlin and Heaton, also 20 civilians cases and 5 deaths. No cases in camp in last three days. Headquarters ordered to interior." The other despatch reports two additional cases of yellow fever at Manzanillo, five in all.

Hopes to Crush Aguinaldo Soon.

Washington, July 12.—The Cabinet discussed the situation in the Philippines and the arrangements for the new volunteer army. President McKinley believes that the Philippine insurrection can be crushed by December 1, and will make every endeavor to end it before Congress meets, so that the form of government for the archipelago may be one of the first matters up. The Cabinet decided to suspend the tariff duty of $1 a head on cattle imported into Cuba for breeding purposes and to allow 50,000 head to enter duty free.

More Volunteer Officers.

Washington, July 12.—Among the volunteer officers appointed by the President yesterday was Daniel B. Case, Colonel of the Fourth Pennsylvania volunteers, John Biddle Porter, Second Pennsylvania, to be majors; to be captains, Charles S. Campbell, adjutant Second Pennsylvania and Frank H. Peck, captain Ninth New York.

Deaths From Lockjaw.

New York, July 12.—Two boys died of lockjaw in the Bronx, and according to the physicians of the different hospitals there will be more deaths from the same cause in the next few weeks. Another death occurred in Roosevelt Hospital. The records of the uptown hospitals show that the number of boys who received injuries about the head and face from toy pistols on the Fourth of July this year was 100 per cent. larger than on any previous celebration. One of the physicians of the J. Hood Wright Hospital said that the average wound caused by the toy pistol leaves a small opening, which makes it particularly hard to clean out the foreign substances. "In such cases," said he, "the tetanus bacilli are bound to get in and remain."

Another vessel to clear with a cargo of grain for Rotterdam is the British steamer Caithness, which has aboard about 60,000 bushels of oats, valued at $20,000, and 120,000 bushels of corn, valued at $48,000. The British steamer Milton has also cleared, having on board 185,000 bushels of corn, valued at $74,000, bound for Copenhagen.

Cullum went away, won renown and a fortune and left the fortune to his sweetheart, who always remained true to his memory.

Coughlin Forfeits Bond. Chicago, July 12.—When the case of "Dan" Coughlin, widely known on account of his arrest and conviction for participation in the murder of Dr. Cronin, was called in court here, he failed to appear. EPIDEMIC PROBABLE Serious Problem In Sanitation Confronts Texas.

THE HEALTH BAZAR AT WORK

Inspecting a District Four Hundred Miles Long and Fifty Miles Wide. Local Organizations.

State Health Inspector Goes to the Inundated District—Governor Sayers Asked to Solicit Contributions of Cotton Seed For Replanting the Devastated Country.

Dallas, Tex., July 12.—Texas is going to have a serious problem in sanitation to meet in the Brazos flood region. State Health Officer Blount realizes this and has gone to the heart of the flood-swept section of Texas. He will inspect the Brazos valley from Calvert to the Gulf—a district 300 miles long by 50 miles wide. Strong local health and sanitary organizations will be formed to act as aids to the State Health Department. Many deaths are expected among the flood refugees as a result of exposure and hunger and from sickness contracted therefrom. The fears of an epidemic are creating keen anxiety. All the imperilled persons have been rescued except in remote districts close to the Gulf coast, where the Brazos delta is wide and isolated places are not easy of access. An appeal has been made to Gov. Sayers by a replanting organization, of which the following is a copy: "Please wire the Mayors of towns named below asking immediate shipment of cotton seed for replanting in flooded districts. Start immediately to be successful: Brenham, Austin, Houston, Waco, San Antonio, Temple, Belton, Bryan, Corsicana, Waxahachie, Dallas, Hillsboro, Alvarado, Brownwood, Palestine, Groesbeck, Llanis, Wortham, Sherman, Paris, Texarkana, Denison, Ft. Worth, Haltom, and Wilmer. In addition to cotton seed the flood sufferers need black-eyed peas, sorghum seed and kafir, or other quick-maturing corn to plant as soon as the flood recedes." The Governor complied with the request. Mayor Taylor of Dallas had already started such a movement among the cotton seed men of Northern Texas, and the response to the call is of a very encouraging nature. Many shipments of seeds are already on the way to the flooded district and some have already arrived there.

Railway Employees to Meet.

Altoona, Pa., July 12.—Representatives of all the railway employees' associations will meet in Altoona, this evening, on Saturday and Sunday next. While the meeting is called primarily for social purposes, it is said that a very important business meeting has been arranged. Among the officers to be represented are Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Order of Railway Telegraphers. The territory included extends from the Mississippi to the Atlantic, except the New England and extreme Southern States.

The Alaskan Boundary.

Washington, July 12.—In the absence of official information the report that Canadian mounted police are to be sent into the Porcupine country, claimed by both the United States and Canada, is not credited by the State Department. It is pointed out that our Government withheld a garrison from Pyramid Harbor, in that section, at the simple suggestion from the British authorities, and it is not conceivable that a permanent force is to be maintained in that region by the English. The British embassy also gives no credit to the story.

Fire in Hopewell, N. J.

Hopewell, N. J., July 12.—The fire wiped out the principal business block of this town. For a time it was feared that the entire town would be destroyed. Among the places burned were: Douglas's barber shop, Zander's confectionary store, J. E. Shepherd's grocery store, the house of P. J. Stuppert, ladies' rooms of the Knights of Pythias, James Smith's tailor shop, Holt & Vanduyke's law offices, the central station of the Bell Telephone Company, and several other establishments.

New Road to Atlantic City.

Trenton, N. J., July 12.—The Delaware & Atlantic Railroad Company has been incorporated here with an authorized capital of $6,000,000 to construct a railroad from Elgin, Chester City, Atlantic City, and Pocomoke. The project was conceived by Z. P. Boyer, Jr., Henry Hennigton, Walter M. Boyer, Frederick A. Nicholson, J. Theodore Ninesett, all of Philadelphia; Charles T. Maloney, J. R. Roe, A. W. Captell, Ben. J. Davis, Thomas Andrews, Arthur J. Hall, of Woodbury, and J. T. Suckley, of Clarksboro.

No More Troops for the Yukon.

Ottawa, Ont., July 12.—The report that more mounted police are to be sent to the Yukon is officially denied. As was stated in Parliament, the Government intends to withdraw some of the militia from there. There are at present about 250 members of the police force in the Yukon, stationed mostly at Dawson. Some of them are stationed along the trail in two or three places. The military force consists of 200 men, of whom 120 are at Fort Sackville and eighty at Dawson.

Jamaica and Canada.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 12.—It is now announced that the real object of the government in sending the reciprocity delegates to Ottawa after completing the negotiations at Washington is to endeavor to secure the imposition by the Dominion Government of controlling duties on Jamaican beet sugar.

THE FARCE MOST OVER.
CONCORD, July 12.—The hearing of the civil service commission on the charges brought against Senator Gallinger, sitting at Concord, culminated today in a bitter dispute between the two United States senators of New Hampshire, in which the lie was passed, and a personal encounter between the two was only prevented by a friend. Previous to this Chandler became involved in a dispute with Chairman Brewer of the commission, in which he claimed partiality had been shown. There is very little likelihood of the commission continuing the hearing, although they will remain here tomorrow. Treasurer William F. Thayer, the author of the circular did not testify. The commission, however, received a statement from him in which he said he was responsible for the circular, and Senator Gallinger knew he said it out.

PROVING A TRUE STORY.

Visible Evidence of Nature's Punishment Meted Out to a Traitor.
Some years ago, in a certain town in the North, a gentleman possessed of more money than education was asked to address the scholars attending one of the local schools some Sunday afternoon. The day arrived, says Spare Moments, and our friend was called upon.

"Well, children," said he, "I'm not used to public speaking, but I remember when I was a lad I was very fond of hearing a story. Shall I tell a story?"

"The children assenting, he proceeded: "Once upon a time, many years ago, there was a lad, a very good lad, who went regularly to Sunday school, and never missed. But one Sunday afternoon, as he was going to school, two bad boys met him and persuaded him to go birdnesting with 'em. So they went along by the river side, and by and by they came to a tree, and in the tree, on a branch which overhung the water, was a nest. The two bad lads sent the good lad to climb the tree and fetch the eggs. Up he went and got out on the branch, further and further, until as he was reaching out his hand to take the nest the limb broke and he fell in the river and was drowned."

A Poser for the Preacher.
To a young man who stood smoking a cigar on a downtown corner the other day, says the Chicago Chronicle, there appeared an elderly and impertinent reformer of immemorial legend.

"How many cigars a day do you smoke?" asked the licensed meddler in other people's affairs.
"Three," replied the youth, as patiently as he could.

"Ten cents each," confessed the young man.

"Don't you know, sir," continued the sage, "that if you would save that money by the time you are as old as I am you would own that big building on the corner?"

"Do you own it?" inquired the smoker.
"No," replied the old man.
"Well, I do," said the young man.

Costly Fish.
"How much did those fish cost you?" asked the friend who met him at the pier.
"They have cost me a dollar and a half in bait, half a dollar for minnows, half a dollar for the fish, a quarter for lard money to the chap who sold them to me, a suit of clothes and probably my church membership," replied the Sunday fisherman with a hunted look in his eye.—Chicago Tribune.

The Two Extremes.
"That politician gave us some cold facts."
"How did the other party like it?"
"They winced, of course; it was hot stuff, I tell you."—Chicago Record.

"That was a queer dying request made by the famous Mr. Burkins."
"What was that?"
"He said if a bronze statue was made of him he wanted his tailor to remodel the trousers."

Dyspepsia Defined.
"Are you seriously ill?" asked the well-meaning friend.
"Oh, no," answered the dyspeptic, with a faint, sarcastic laugh. "I hurt all over and don't know whether the sun rises to-morrow or not. But I'm not seriously ill. I'm jocosely, flippantly and facetiously ill. I'm going through all the symptoms, but I don't mean one of them."—Washington Star.

Had Dates Ahead.
"I want to get up a popular demonstration," said the Paris agitator.
"When does monsieur desire it?"
"To-morrow."
"I'm very sorry, but monsieur's rival has engaged the mob for to-morrow. But day after to-morrow it will be disengaged."—Washington Star.

Not a Proof of Affection.
A man is decidedly foolish if he believes that a woman is in love with him simply because she laughs at his jokes.

Quite Possible.
"Jollym is quite a wit."
"Yes, he always says the wrong thing in the right place."

HER FLIRTATION.

"And is that all the news?" saucily demanded Rupertine Clifgate. "Widow Prickett married again—and Alice Brown gone to Colorado—and young Morris built a new house. That isn't much to happen in eight weeks. Dear dear, how stupid the country is, after New York."

"That's all," said Daisy, solemnly. "Except—oh, I had almost forgotten to mention him—the new minister."

"A new minister?" echoed Rupertine. "Oh, I remember—old Mr. Ward did resign, just before I went away. What sort of a man is he? Does he wear spectacles and quote the Proverbs of Solomon through his nose?"

"Oh, no," said Daisy, half indignantly. "Why, he's only twenty-five, and has the finest dark eyes and—"

"Unmarried?" interrupted Rupertine, breathlessly.
"So they say—and perfectly devoted to his books and studies."

"Is he?" retorted Miss Rupertine. "Well, then, after all, I shall not be obliged to let my sword of conquest rust in its sheath. I'll teach this young dandy that the 'proper study of mankind is man'—or rather woman. We'll go to church to-morrow, Daisy!"

"Well, what are you opening your round blue eyes so wide for? I've got a white Swiss muslin dress trimmed with white ruffles and pink ribbon, which I think will about settle Mr. Mr."

"Arham," put in Daisy, demurely. "And a very pretty name, too—well it will settle Mr. Arham's business for him. Oh, I tell you, when Daisy, these young ministers are no more invaluable than the rest of the world, with their long faces and their solemn ways."

Rupertine kept her word and went to church the next day. Mr. Arham saw her; he could scarcely have helped that. For Dr. Clifgate's pew was in the very front of the middle aisle—and Rupertine smiled secretly to herself to observe the momentary intention which caused him almost to lose his place in the hymn-book, whose leaves he was turning over.

"I'll teach him to put St. Rupertine among the list of canonized beings yet," said the coquette to herself. "I'll teach him to put St. Rupertine among the list of canonized beings yet," said the coquette to herself.

"Oh, well, Mrs. Kershaw," said the beauty, "I'm tired of fashion and frivolity, and I want to work just as Daisy here does."

And when Mr. Arham came down to the old Clifgate House one autumn evening Rupertine went down to see him, with a curious thrill at her heart, as though it hungered for something afar off.

"Miss Rupertine," frankly began the young minister. "I have long wanted to tell you something."

"Yes," Rupertine leaned graciously toward him.
"Of course, it is a matter of some importance to me, but whether it will be to you or not—"

"Can you doubt that, Mr. Arham?" she asked, merrily.
"Well, then, I am thinking of being married."

"You will tell me to whom?"
"That was my intention in coming here to-night. Miss Clifgate, I fear you will think me presumptuous."

"Try me and see," she smiled. "I have no such fears."
"It is a relief to hear you say that. I have engaged myself to marry your sister, Daisy."

Daisy started to her feet, every drop of the scarlet blood in her veins seeming to freeze.
"Mr. Arham! since when?"
"Since before you returned from New York, Miss Rupertine, and I have only just succeeded in inducing her to allow me to tell you."

"Daisy! The rogue! the darling little hypocrite," cried Rupertine, hardly knowing whether to be angry or pleased. But Daisy's arms round her neck checked the burst of words.

"You are not angry, dear?"
"Angry," she whispered. "No; but all this time I have been trying to win him for myself, and you know it, Daisy."

"Yes, I know it, Rupertine. But a heart that could have been won away from me thus would scarcely have been worth acceptance. So I let you try."

"Mr. Arham," cried Rupertine, in her natural voice once more. "You have chosen well. Daisy is the very one to be a minister's wife."

"I think so, too," said Mr. Arham, in a tone of quiet self-gratulation. And so Miss Rupertine Clifgate's summer flirtation was all love's labor lost.

Woody—Oh, that's off long ago. I got it in the solar plexus.

"What's that piece they are playing?" said the man with a very large neck. The lady with him pointed to the programme.
"Fantasia in a minor," he said with a confident critical air. "Well, it does beat everything what queer products Asia Minor turns out, doesn't it? But they ought to put a period after that 'A'."—Washington Star.

"That son-in-law of yours is a cool one," remarked one Griswold street banker to another, "and has a long head for business. Does he ever get rattled?"
"Oh, he has his limit like the rest of us. When he asked me for my daughter, he was so confounded that he kissed me and shook hands with the girl."—Detroit Free Press.

THE HERALD.

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1893.

LOCAL STORIES.

A well known summer resident of Newcastle was the victim of a misunderstanding on Sunday which resulted in an hour's work without any corresponding benefit. He bought a new ice cream freezer of improved pattern during the week, and on Sunday was given to understand that the machine was all ready for business. He accordingly began operations, and turned the crank for 55 minutes, meanwhile looking out carefully to keep his ice and salt constantly packed. At the end of that time, he was relieved by another member of the family, who had become anxious at what seemed an unreasonable delay of the dinner hour, and who, after turning the crank for five minutes, bethought himself to look inside the freezer, when to his surprise it was entirely empty, the ingredients for the ice cream not having been taken from the ice chest, where they were put for safe keeping.

A young man in a neighboring town advertised for a wife under an assumed name; and his sister answered the advertisement, also under an assumed name. Then photographs were exchanged, and now the young man thinks there is no harm in advertising and the old folks think it is pretty hard to have two fools in one family.

TO BE KEPT AS A SHOW SHIP.

Secretary Long has decided that it would not pay to renovate the Mercedes, as the ship when repaired would be of old type and not have the requirements of modern naval ships. Therefore the repairs to be made upon her will be confined to a little painting and cleaning and patching, and the Mercedes will be left as a show ship, like the old Constitution, to gratify the patriotism of the American people.

THE HAMPTON SEASON.

The season at this resort has fairly opened and from now until September dull moments will be scarce. The beach is somewhat changed from last year, the marked difference being the erection of the new street railway casino and several fine cottages on the lower beach. The building of the casino at this location will have a large tendency to boom that portion of the beach near Hampton river.

ACCIDENT.

William Hammond, an employee of the Frank Jones farm, met with a severe accident while at work in the hay field on Wednesday morning, the 12th inst. He was using a patent hay fork and caught his right hand in the gearing while it was in motion and smashed the index and middle fingers to such an extent that amputation was necessary by Dr. William O. Jenkins, the injured man being brought here in one of the farm teams.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH.

Special meetings are in progress at the South ward room, conducted by Rev. G. O. Bullock of Shaw University, Raleigh, North Carolina. Services every evening except Saturday, commencing at eight o'clock. Everybody welcome. Mr. Bullock is supplying this pulpit while passing a part of his vacation in this city. He is an earnest, interesting speaker.

ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The annual picnic of St. John's Sunday school was held at York Beach, on Wednesday, the 12th inst. The teachers and children assembled at the chapel at nine o'clock in the morning, and were photographed in a group, after which about 150 took the trolley for "The Willows," York Beach, where they had a most enjoyable day.

CONCORD FOOLED, TOO.

The kissing bug has made its appearance in Concord. No injury by them has yet been reported, but two of them were captured last evening in a room in Stickney north block, where they are now on exhibition.—Concord People and Patriot.

PORTLAND WILL GIVE FLEET

A Royal Reception—What Did Portsmouth Do?

Here is an outline of the gala entertainment that Portland has prepared for the officers and crews of the North Atlantic squadron:

This morning, the mayor paid an official visit to Acting-Admiral Taylor, which wasn't the case here.

This afternoon, the officers were dined by the board of trade at Peak's Island—the like of which didn't take place here.

Friday forenoon, Governor Powers will pay his respects to the acting-admiral, which Governor Rollins couldn't take time to come over from York Beach to do.

Friday forenoon, also, there will be a parade, to be reviewed by the governor, in which 1000 men from the fleet will participate, and companies of the state militia and the Portland naval brigade to the number of 500,—something which Portsmouth didn't try to carry through, even on a small scale.

On Saturday, the men of the fleet will be given a clambake at Peak's Island, while Portsmouth had neither clam nor inclination for such a thing.

The city has offered a silver loving cup, suitably engraved, to the ship winning the most points in the athletic events—which Portsmouth thought of only when the fleet had left the harbor for Portland.

A grand fireworks exhibit will occur from the water front, Friday evening—while Portsmouth didn't invest in even a bunch of red torpedoes in honor of the fleet's visit.

Portland issued 2,000 coupon pass books, entitling any marine or sailor holder to free transportation on any of Portland's street lines or any of the harbor steamboat lines. Portsmouth thought of this Wednesday night, after supper, but 'twas too late then.

Fifty of Portland's prettiest girls will shower the "men behind the guns" with flowers as they parade past, the reviewing stand. Portsmouth has pretty girls and plenty of flowers, but nothing like this was thought of.

The Portland Y. M. C. A. will hold open house at the Auditorium, where temperance drinks and light lunches will be freely proffered to the sailors—which wasn't attempted here.

The Portland city councils appropriated $2500 for these gala days. Had anybody stood up in the Portsmouth city councils and moved an appropriation of twenty-five cents there would have been a riot.

Of course, Portsmouth is a smaller city than Portland, but she might have acquitted herself with proportionate credit, instead of lying in an ossified state during the stay of the squadron.

PORTSMOUTH'S NEW POSTMASTER.

John H. Bartlett is a native of Sunapee and is 30 years of age. He was a graduate of Dartmouth college, in '94. Previous to entering college he taught school for several years at Glover, Vt., where he was principal of the academy. At the completion of his college course he came to this city, accepting the position of principal of the Haven school, serving one year, when he was transferred to the Whipple school, where he taught another year.

He was then elected principal of the High school, serving in that capacity for two years, resigning to enter into partnership with Mayor Page in the law firm of Page and Bartlett. While in college Mr. Bartlett was for two years editor of the Dartmouth Literary Monthly and Hanover correspondent of a Boston paper.

In December, 1893, he edited and published a book on athletics, which told of the rise and growth of the various lines of athletic sports in Dartmouth, together with interesting facts of the college records and the men who held them. The book had a wide sale among the Dartmouth alumni and others. He has also been a frequent contributor of verse to various publications.

Mr. Bartlett graduated from college with high honors, being the orator of his class. He was a member of the Theta Delta Chi and the Casque and Gannet Greek letter fraternities. He is a nephew of Gen. Charles H. Bartlett of Manchester. He is a member of several secret societies of this city.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Eunice Witham.

Mrs. Eunice, wife of Mr. Lorenzo D. Witham of Kittery, died on Wednesday morning, the 12th inst., at her home, after a long illness, aged seventy-four years, three months and eighteen days. She leaves, besides her husband, one son and a daughter.

Alex Clemmons will meet any map in the world in a one-mile swimming race or in exhibitions of high diving. Alex is a peer at this kind of sport and should succeed in making a match will have plenty of backing in this town. He is expecting engagements at the Farragut house and Newcastle to give exhibitions and would undoubtedly prove a good "drawing-card" at those well known hostilities—Exeter Gazette.

OPENING OF SAGAMORE HOUSE.

The concert by the Flute and Drum band at the Sagamore House tomorrow evening will mark the formal opening of the place to the public. Mr. Webb, the new proprietor, proposes to make it a pleasant resort where light drinks and lunches may be obtained, and anybody can wait for a car. It will be conducted cleanly. Tomorrow night special cars will leave there for town about 11 o'clock. The regular cars for the house leave the square at 7.09, 8.00 and 9.15.

VISITED THE NAVY YARD.

Congressman David B. Henderson and Congressman Frank G. Clarke were visitors to the navy yard today. They have been passing several days at the Hotel Wentworth, and were conveyed from Newcastle to the yard in Admiral Remy's barge, at 11 o'clock this forenoon. Congressman Henderson will be the speaker of the next house.

THE SCRAP STARTED OVER A BUNCH OF BANANAS.

William Quinn and Thomas Stanley, who is identified with the gypsy encampment at the Plains, were looked up a little while before noon today, for getting into a brawl on the street. The affair took place in front of Quinn's fruit headquarters, on Pleasant street.

It is said that Stanley stopped to buy some bananas off a bunch that was hanging outside, and that he asked Quinn if they were free from "kissing bugs." Quinn corrected him, saying that he must mean tarantulas, but Stanley took offense at the remark and went on record as declaring that Quinn was "a cheap fellow."

Thereupon Quinn drew nearer to discuss it, and Stanley sent his brawny right squarely against Quinn's face. They clinched, and Quinn promptly commenced an oration full of profanity and obscenity which drew a big crowd, but didn't prevent Stanley from drawing first blood.

When Marshal Entwistle, Assistant Marshal West and Officer Holbrook arrived at the ring side from the police station over the way, Quinn was blaspheming at the top of his voice, while being restrained by two acquaintances from following Stanley, who appeared to be willing to let Quinn go home and use a towel on the scratches that decorated his features.

Both Quinn and Stanley were taken to the station and put into cells, where they renewed the quarrel at long range. Their trial was set for three o'clock this afternoon.

INSTALLATION AND BANQUET.

Noble Grand, Frederick Gardner; Past Chief, Orville E. Hawes; Vice Chief, Charles F. Cole; High Priest, Thomas Dudley; V. E., E. P. Gidney; Sir Herald, Charles E. Oliver; Worthy Bard, William T. Betton; Esquire, James Kehoe; Esquire, Frank H. Harrison; Second Guardian, W. P. Gardner. The rites of the Pilgrim degree were conferred upon one candidate, after which the members retired to the dining rooms where a fine banquet was served, after which came remarks by Sir Knights Gardner, Priest, Hanscom, Phinney and others.

The new presiding knight, Fred Gardner, though young in years, showed he was not slow in post prandial as he propounded the objects of the order and the requirements of its members, and was followed by Past Chief T. W. Priest on the good work accomplished by secret orders in general. There was a large attendance and after the speeches, music, etc., finished up an evening of rare enjoyment.

A party from Coeur de Leon Castle of Dover were present as guests of the local lodge.

THE MARINE WON OUT IN THE SPRINT.

Officer Caverly had an exciting chase after a marine yesterday afternoon. The marine came over the crossing in front of J. Frank Seavey & Co.'s clothing house, and was resting against a post at the corner of Second street and the avenue. He was badly intoxicated and his gait was very much mixed as he passed over the crossing. Officer Caverly saw that the man was apparently in no fit condition to be wandering around the streets. He went to arrest the fellow and had just placed his hand on his back, when the marine glanced around at him. Quick as a flash he dropped his shoulder and then sprang into the air and made tracks for Main street, closely pursued by the officer. The marine had a barrel or more of speed, and the way that he flew was a record breaker. Star Pointer, 1.59 1-4, could not have reached his side. The officer set a warm pace at first, but his wind was a trifle shady and he gave it up, while the marine took a trip across the bridge to the city farm, and the last heard of him he was stepping a 210 clip as he passed over the Dover Point bridge, en route to Portsmouth. The officer went back to Franklin square, where he boarded an electric car to take a ride and cool off.—Dover Democrat.

SMALL PIECES IN DEMAND.

The demand during the past year for one cent and five cent pieces has been unprecedented and the treasury officials take this as an indication of the growth of the retail business and a symptom of general prosperity. A year ago there was $1,800,000 in this class of so-called minor coins. To this amount $379,412 was added by the regular coinage for the year. At present there is only $240,000 worth of this small coin in the treasury. The demand from all over the country has been so great as to cause much comment among the treasury officials.
